The Poultry Trade.

In so branch of our domestic markets has there been a greater increase and improvement in cities than in that of poultry.

This results chiefly from the facilities offered by speedy transportation, and the establishment of Express Companies for all parts of the country, who in cool weather will transport fresh poultry to market from the most distant States in perfect order, when the dressing and packing has been properly performed.

In the larger cities the increase in the poultry trade has been most marked. For instance, in the city of New York the quantity of poultry that arrived in one week, from the 20th to the 27th of December last, is estimated at 250 tons, or an average of 50 tons a day. From Monday to Friday of that week the American Express Company delivered twenty-eight car loads, containing five tons to the car, chiefly poultry. The remainder of this immense store for the supply of Christmas week came by other established Express lines, by boats and country wagons.

An important feature in the poultry trade has been established by several enterprising firms for the supply of the New York market, which is the wort of imitation for the supply of the city markets of the West. We allude to the establishment of "poultry factories," at convenient and central points in the interior. There are several of these poultry-fattening establishments in New York, one in Aurora, two in Chautauqua county, and others in Ohio. It is estimated that each of these factories will furnish fifteen tons of poultry for the city market of New York. A large number of men and teams are employed in collecting these birds, which are brought in alive, and if not fat fed till they are, and rendered fit for market. They are then dressed and packed in the most approved manner, and sent Express to market, where they readily command several cents more than the much of the country dressed poultry is brought to market by farmers and bucksters generally.

Poultry in our markets is generally sold by the piece or dozen, at prices sometimes according to size and quality. In passing through the market we see parcels of chickens that are mere skeletons covered with skin, entirely unfit to eat; and poultry of this character is not unfrequently met with. This is sometimes sold by those who raise it, but more generally it is bought up in the country and sold by bucksters.

If the custom of selling poultry by the pound was established, it would come to market in much better condition. It is the meating the lawyer, as soon as he discovered his affianced bride was a slave, and had just been sold to a far worse than death, like a dog, that he caused his master to release her.

The poor girl's horror and distress may be imagined. She had known nothing but happiness, and now was to be plunged into the deepest and most hopeless misery. She had no home, and had nowhere to go but to the master who had sold her merely for the gratification of his lusts.

The lusts was too horrible, and she swooned, remaining almost delirious for several days.

There was a master upon whom a hideous crime had been committed. In a produce house in Louisville, a master had frequently visited the planter's house on business, and struck with the beauty and intelligence of the supposed daughter, had procured her to be his slave, and for an hour the transaction was closed. It troubled him to disclose the master to her, but the fear of punishment led him to do so.

DAILY COURIER

Steamboat and River News.

STEAMBOATS LEAVING TO-DAY.

FOR PARTICULARS SEE ADVERTISEMENTS.

JACOB STRADER, Missian, Cincinnati.
EMMA DEAN, Vimerard, Carrollton.
KUNICE, Mclure, Wheeling.
R. J. WARD, Miller, N. O.
DIAMOND, Hollerott, Owensboro.

The River was at a stand yesterday, with five feet of water in the falls last evening, and the canal there was then fast to the boats, which would make about eight feet of water for boats propelled by steam. The weather was disagreeable—cold, chilly, windy, snowy, and icy—with a prospect of either a hard freeze or a heavy snowfall to-night.

Our dispatches from Pittsburgh at noon, we learn that the river was rising, with over eight feet water in the channel, and a prospect of another coalboat tide. At Cincinnati yesterday, the canal was also swelling a little, and the officers of the mail boat report Kentucky river slightly on the swell.

The Mississippi at St. Louis was about stationary yesterday, and tolerably clear of ice.

The Ohio at Cincinnati was clear, freight enough at the wharf yesterday to load her down, guards under for New Orleans. She took it, of course, at very low rates, and started to the canal about dark.

The boat, Judge McClure, has a trip to-day, or rather two trips, to tow coalboats through the locks, which is another new feature in the trade, an immense advantage to the canal, a saving of time, labor, and a saving of nearly a day in time. It is also a benefit to the canal, as she can tow a pair of boats through in her, which would otherwise occupy the canal for two hours, requiring at least 24 hours to work a pair of coalboats through the canal. The Judge is ready to tow anything, and to go in or out of any place large enough for a rat boat. She only draws 18 inches water, and can go 500 yards on the fall.

John K. Moody, the clever clerk of the splendid Saint Louis and Memphis packet John H. Dickey, is now in the city, on a brief business and pleasure trip. The Dickey is undergoing thorough repairs in express of the U.S. San Joaquin, as the latter damaged her considerably when she ran into her.

Tsoumoum—Of this steamer, the Evansville Inquirer says: We learn there will, in all likelihood, be a late suit between the late charterers and the new, and a demand for damages for breach of contract.

OUR ISLAND SEA COMMISSION—According to the statistics, the total value of the steamboats running on the Mississippi river, and its tributaries, is over $9,000,000, and the number over fifteen hundred, a number a little less than the number of steamers of Great Britain, and more than that of all the nations of Europe and the rest of the world put together. Yet singular enough, politicians have been found who, in their desire to improve the navigation of the United States, have proposed to prohibit the navigation of this immense fleet of steamers.

THE Gay Umpire came in from Kentucky yesterday, with a good trip, including a quantity of bagging. She is the Monday and Thursday packet.

EXPRESS LINE—We learn that a new line, called the Pittsburgh and Memphis Union Line, has been formed. It consists for the present of the Ida May, Capt. John May, the Anglo Saxon, Capt. Baker, and the Basting, Capt. D. D. Dickey, all of which are to be used, and one of those boats will follow each succeeding week. We wish the line success.

A TESTIMONIAL—The boatmen of Pittsburgh are getting a testimonial for Capt. Billy Foray, their late wharfmaster. It will be given to him on the 20th, at 4 p. m.

We learn that Temple & Robinson, of the New Orleans, were contracted to build a fort for Louisiana, Mo.

Marion Gazette—Instead of coming back we learn that Capt. B. H. Orr has chartered the Marion for the New Orleans and Baton Rouge trade.

The loss of the Marion—We have but few additional particulars in regard to the loss of the Marion. She was snared in Noda Lake, Red river, just above Shreveport, with a cargo of cotton. The B. H. Lodge, which reached New Orleans on the 10th, had part of the cotton on board, and the value of the cargo about $6,000, and was insured for $4,000. It was thought she would prove a total loss.

THE Falls City, from New Orleans, was at Cairo on Friday, with a large load of freight for Chicago. 2,000 barrels of molasses for Cincinnati, and 200 barrels of sugar, which she expects to ship on the Keyston at Mount City, and the Leigh, from St. Louis.

THE Marego arrived from New Orleans last evening, with nearly 500 tons for Pittsburgh, including 500 bushels of cotton.

THE Flying Cloud, from New Orleans, discharged at Cairo Friday, 500 barrels of molasses for New Orleans, and 100 barrels of sugar, destined for the city of New Orleans, and 200 barrels of molasses for Cincinnati.

THE Madison, recently sunk, is at Cincinnati undergoing repairs, and will be ready to resume her place in the Express Line in a month.

THE crew of the Prim Donna yesterday, were setting up a spar, it "tripped" and fell striking two of the men, who were badly injured.

THE last Antelope, Capt. Brown, is due from New Orleans to-morrow, and is advertised to return on Thursday.

THE following items we glean from the Cincinnati Gazette of yesterday:
